Dr. Hairston presided during the election of the president of the Board of Education of Baltimore County. Dr. Hairston asked for nominations for the office of president. Mr. Janssen nominated Mr. Schmidt. There being no further nominations, Dr. Hairston closed the nominations for the office of president. The motion to select Mr. Schmidt was passed (favor-10; no vote-2).

Mr. Schmidt assumed the chair. Mr. Schmidt thanked Board members for their confidence and support. He stated that the Board cannot solve every problem and address every issue, but it can set policy and provide leadership to address the issues and provide the best school system for its students.

Mr. Schmidt requested nominations for the office of vice president of the Board of Education. Mr. Uhlfelder nominated Ms. Roddy. Ms. Johnson nominated Mr. Coleman. There being no further nominations, Mr. Schmidt closed the nominations for the office of vice president. The motion to elect Ms. Roddy was passed (favor-8; no vote-4).

OLD BUSINESS

Board of Education Policies

The Board Policy Committee, represented by Mr. Janssen recommended approval of two policies. This is the third reading.

On motion of Mr. Janssen, seconded by Ms. Johnson, the Board approved the following proposed policies:

- Proposed Changes to Policy 5550 – STUDENTS: Conduct - Disruptive Behavior
- Proposed New Policy 5551 – STUDENTS: Conduct - Gang Activity and Similar Destructive or Illegal Behavior

Mr. Coleman stated that the Board of Education’s Policy Review Committee (PRC) has compiled the comments received concerning Policy 1300, COMMUNITY RELATIONS: Use of School Facilities. The Board received a spreadsheet summarizing the 60 comments received on the policy. Each comment is numbered, and for ease of reference includes the section to which the amendment refers. Mr. Coleman noted that for each suggested amendment, a motion and a second is required, and the votes will be taken separately.

Mr. Parker moved that Policy 1300 be returned to the PRC for further review and to take all comments under consideration. Mr. Janssen seconded the motion. The Board unanimously approved remanding Policy 1300 to the PRC for further review (favor-12).

Mr. Janssen suggested that Board members be given time to review the comments and e-mail comments to the committee members. Mr. Schmidt encouraged all Board members to review the comments and e-mail any recommendations to Board’s Administrative Assistant.

Dr. Hairston stated that, in view of the fact that the Board has been withdrawn from voting on Policy 1300, staff will be withdrawing Rule 1300, COMMUNITY RELATIONS: Use of School Facilities, from tonight’s agenda. This rule will be reintroduced once the revised policy has been presented and voted upon.

PERSONNEL MATTERS

On motion of Mr. Janssen, seconded by Mr. Parker, the Board approved the personnel matters as presented on exhibits E, F, G, H, I, and J (Copies of the exhibits are attached to the formal minutes).

HEARING EXAMINER’S RECOMMENDATIONS

On a motion of Mr. Janssen, seconded by Mr. Parker, the Board approved that the hearing examiner’s opinion in case #11-21 be affirmed (favor-12).

On a motion of Mr. Uhlfelder, seconded by Mr. Parker, the Board approved that the hearing examiner’s opinion in case #11-24 be affirmed (favor-12).

Mr. McNaney moved to adopt the hearing examiners recommendation and accept the Superintendent’s decision in case #11-29. Mr. Parker seconded the motion.

Ms. Bright Gordon moved to amend Mr. McNaney’s motion that the summary affirmance for case #11-29 in that the decision be deferred and remanded to the hearing examiner so that documents could be translated to the Appellant’s native language, which is French. Mr. Bowler seconded the amendment.

Mr. Janssen stated that the motion and the amendment to the motion stand counter to one another. If we vote on the amendment, the Board is overturning the original motion. There is no evidence before this Board that the decision was not sent to the parties in their native language. He stated that it is his experience with the school system that it typically translates between five to nine languages automatically, with French being one of those languages. Mr. Janssen would hope the school system did that; however, that topic is not being the Board in this case. Mr. Collins stated that he supports the amendment to the motion.

Mr. Uhlfelder asked whether the Appellant’s right to appeal automatically restart if the hearing officer’s recommendations are translated into the Appellant’s native language. Andrew Nussbaum, Esquire, Board’s Counsel, responded in the affirmative.

Mr. Moniodis noted that the documents presented to the Board indicated that the Appellant turned down an interpreter and that the Appellant understood the English language.

The motion to amend the summary affirmance failed (favor-5; oppose-7).

On a motion of Mr. McNaney, seconded by Mr. Parker, the Board approved that the hearing examiner’s opinion in case #11-29 be affirmed (favor-10; opposed-2).

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. Hines made the following announcements:

- The Board of Education of Baltimore County will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, August 9, 2011, at Greenwood. The meeting will begin with an open session at approximately 5:00 p.m. The Board will then adjourn to meet in closed session. The open session will reconvene at approximately 7:00 p.m. The public is welcome to all open sessions.

Mr. Schmidt stated that public comment is one of the opportunities provided to hear the views and receive the advice of community members. The members of the Board appreciate hearing from interested citizens and will take their comments into consideration, even though it is not the Board’s practice to take action at this time on issues which are raised. When appropriate, the Board will refer concerns to the superintendent for follow-up by his staff.

While the Board encourages public input on policy, programs, and practices within the purview of this Board and this school system, this is not the proper avenue to address specific student or employee matters, or to comment on matters that do not relate to public education in Baltimore County. The Board encourages everyone to utilize existing avenues of redress for complaints. Inappropriate personal remarks or other behavior that disrupts or interferes with the conduct of this meeting are out of order.

Mr. Schmidt also asked speakers to observe the light system, which lets the speaker know when time is up. He asked speakers to conclude their remarks when they see the red light.
GENERAL PUBLIC COMMENT

Ms. Leslie Weber stated that she understands the need to create the best policy possible (Policy 1300); however, the matter is now in limbo. She wanted to know when the public would receive a decision and approval on this policy. Ms. Weber asked that public comments be taken into account when revising the Policy.

Ms. Juliet Fisher stated she was pleased to see the Stoneleigh Elementary received funding for the design, but commented that the Board needs to make the construction funds a priority for FY13.

Dr. Bash Pharoan stated that at the last Board meeting, Mr. Parker asked to meet with him and said Mr. Parker’s voice was intimidating.

Mr. David Greene stated that he would improve his tone or demeanor when speaking at future Board meetings.

Dr. Laurie Taylor-Mitchell provided information relative to the task force public hearing that she attended. She urged the Board to go to other county board websites and compare their interaction with the public.

To the Future and Beyond

Dr. Joe Hairston explains how state-of-the-art technology and a commitment to quality are preparing his students for the 21st century.
At Baltimore County Public Schools, mediocrity is a word that isn’t used often, and academic excellence is a daily expectation. Driven by strong goals and a commitment to maintaining a college-bound culture, this district is using technology and ambition to raise achievement levels and better prepare students for the future.

Baltimore County is the 27th largest school system in the US. More than 104,000 students attend the district’s 173 schools, centers, and programs, which cover approximately 630 square miles of land. About 54% of Baltimore County students are minorities, and 42% of students are on free or reduced-price meals.

Dr. Joe Hairston began his role as superintendent of Baltimore County Public Schools 11 years ago. Previously, Hairston was the superintendent of Clayton County Public Schools in Georgia, where he first introduced a progressive plan to help students become globally competitive. The Blueprint for Progress, which has roots dating back to the Ronald Reagan administration, maps out strategies to develop high school graduates who are corporately competitive, giving an edge to American workers in the early stages of their education.

“In 1989, a summit was held in Charlottesville, Va. that defined what our national education goals would be,” said Hairston. “Those goals were based on the world-class standards of education that American students should be able to respond to. Throughout the years, the goals have been modified into America 2000, for example, and then into No Child Left Behind, which we adhere to today.”
The common concept felt throughout the Blueprint for Progress is similar to No Child Left Behind: a focus on the word “all.” Hairston, who strongly believes in the power of the blueprint, brought this concept with him to Baltimore County and has since sparked higher levels of academic achievement and more in-depth relationships with education systems around the world.

“The goals of the blueprint aren’t like a prescription, per se,” he said. “They’re standards that as a district we have to reach. The strategies are examples of things a district can implement, but flexibility is present within the plan for anyone to use his/her own ingenuity and creativity to meet those standards.”

Implementing change

Hairston applied blueprint strategies to Baltimore County by implementing an organizational structure in the district. For example, the business service side of the district is organized by operations that provide logistic support for the district’s facilities.

“We also have a curriculum instructional side of the organization, which reflects our schools, systems, and teachers,” said Hairston. “The accountability standards we adhere to are according to that instructional element. In addition, there are data sets in the blueprint for everything we’re doing. Basically, we’re monitoring the work we do and making appropriate adjustments.”

Throughout Hairston’s 11 years in this role, he recognized the need to change Baltimore County’s approach to blueprint strategies, given the district’s diverse population. He said the district is constantly on the lookout for programs that aren’t yielding positive results among students and will redirect resources to implement programs that will garner student development. “We’re constantly investing in our infrastructure in regard to technology, and we’re not afraid to do away with what isn’t working,” he said.

For example, Baltimore County eliminated Apple computers while moving toward more proprietary types of software. The district set out to build a data warehouse, which included the use of Dell PCs to increase Baltimore County’s range of communication through fiber optics. The district also partnered with Comcast to help with the transition.
"We were able to put PCs on every teacher's desk" said Hirston. "They now each have communication access from their desk and their home. We had to move away from hardwired, standalone PCs to create more mobility and access where we need it. This has brought us to another dimension because we're continuously working toward a virtual learning environment."

Military minded

One of Baltimore County's virtual learning initiatives includes partnerships with military contractors Northrop Grumman and Lockheed Martin as well as the University of Baltimore and Johns Hopkins University. Together, Baltimore County and its partners created a simulated environment in many of the district's classrooms, giving students access to some of the most sought-after technology.

"By the time technology reaches the classroom, it's 10 to 20 years old," said Hirston. "When it's first created, technology moves from the military to the business sector, then to retail and finally into the education system. I was fortunate to witness this technology at an applied physics lab at John Hopkins, which sparked this partnership to get this technology into our classrooms."

Hirston described this as a win-win situation for the district and its partners. As Baltimore County is working to increase students' math and science scores, Northrop Grumman and Lockheed Martin are investing in the engineers and scientists of tomorrow. The program helped increase college interest among Baltimore County high school students while decreasing gang activity and violence throughout the area.

"This program helped us turn lives around," said Hirston. "We implemented this in a school that was plagued by gangs and drugs, and now that school has students talking about going to college and becoming engineers."

To further drive this interest in higher education, the district partnered with the College Board and is putting a greater emphasis on college readiness throughout its high schools. Hirston, following the same concepts found in the blueprint, eliminated low-level courses throughout his schools, which, in turn, is creating higher expectations among students and staff.

"In Maryland, as in the rest of the nation, there's a greater emphasis on college preparedness because of the new economy we're trying to create, which involves jobs requiring math or science backgrounds," said Hirston. "That's not going to be possible if we have students taking courses that aren't challenging. We've eliminated courses that lead nowhere and are forcing every student to exercise their opportunities and work at a higher level."
